

Dear Springeagle:

After speaking with you last month I have recently read both books you gave me: Talks With Christ and Celestine Prophecies. I have also seen the movies you mentioned: The Secret and The Celestine Prophecy, (the Celestine movie is very different than the book).

I kept in mind what you said about no book or any form of media is "all truth or fact, but to gain some insight into the subject. If books or material is taken as truth all books would be bibles. Man writes the books and man is imperfect therefore we need to use our minds and souls to get what we need or want out of what we read."

All are great but only one, (The Secret), actually says anything about changing the negative thought patterns before trying to do any of these things to attain higher ground in life or with Spirituality. The changes needed are lightly touched in The Secret but not in any of the other sources of information I was using.

We have been witnessing and living the hells of realization that we need to clear out our minds of negativity and unresolved issues. Even the best forms of positive thinking will not stop us from sabotage ourselves once we have acquired what we want.

We know we can get all we desire but if we don't appreciate it we will lose it. Many of us have already lived that one through so why do these great writers and producers not mentioning this in a more serious light and why are some of them just leaving this important section out of the entire scenario?

In my eyes it does more damage to gin what one wants and desires just to loose it again because we fear what we love the most so we sabotage ourselves.

I would like to apply these things to my life but need to understand so that I do it right.

Please guide me

Caroline

Hi Caroline:

I have also noticed that in these works and felt a great gap in what they are trying to say. What they are saying about attraction is very true but if your mind is not well due to unresolved issues and negative thinking issues the joy will be short lived with the dreams. Much pain and destruction will replace any happiness gained very early into the dream.

For example a couple dreamed their way into each others lives, gets together and is in total bliss.

Look a little deeper:

They dreamed each other into each other's lives so do each truly know who the other really is or is the personality of each part of the dream and quite different?

I find that realization of these differences is what bust the bubble and all hell begins. Suddenly the bliss turns into the occasional argument, then arguing then fighting then hell.

This couple got what they wanted but the outcome shows that they were not ready for this bliss emotionally thus they destroyed it..

I have also gone through the workings without dealing with my issues. It was pure hell being able to get what I wanted but not being able emotionally to handle it and destroying all I had gained and then some.

So you see you are right to questioning.

Know that to heal properly you will need to around 3 weeks and the children services down here came out When his daughter could not get her way up there she started down here and she made more serious charges that her father had molested her when she was a child along with her usual deal with your issues, as they come up, reach out for what you can handle emotionally and let it grow into what you will be able to handle tomorrow. Patience.

I am glad you noticed this and are open to using the parts that are worth it.

Dear Springeagle:

I have known you for many years and know that you are one of the most loyal and caring people I know and I know some very good people.

I have watched this city tare you apart, lie about you in the media, arrest you on false charges, storm your home looking for things you would never have and literally trashed you.

The churches, police, city councilors and the media have all taken shots at you but you still just go along working to help these kids and abuse victims and survivors. You still speak to all of these people with respect and forgiveness.

My question is why???????????????

Why do you bother helping kids that appreciate nothing?????

Why do you care at all if the person next to you gets abused?????

I know what you do as I am one of the ones you worked so hard to get off the streets.

Love Leaha

Hi Leaha:

Nice to here from you. You sound well.

This is a very hard question but I will try to give you the best answer I am able.

When I first met you I told you that we all had to love each other to the best of our abilities. Well that is what I am doing.

To love others means to care, to care means to make sure we are all safe {as possible in a world filled with hate and deception}, from harm and if possible to harm no one. All the profits including Christ displayed forgiveness, unconditional love and care.

When I first began with LoveCry I was still angry at the system for the deceit I found within.

I have learned a great deal since then and see that the system is as ill as the people it is trying to care for so in my eyes they need the love and caring as much as the street kids do.

I know I was afraid of all of them including you when I started LoveCry. I had no idea of what I was doing. I prayed and followed God this was easy, but I was still afraid, because I was unaware of the fact that I was constantly being intimidated by people who were trying to shut LoveCry down and in order to get it up and running I refused to pay attention to people trying to scare me. Due to this the fear grew in all of us.

I found later that you and the others {authorities more then anyone}, were just as afraid of me so I decided to get someone who could help me to sort this all out and she became one of my mentors. I call her Lady D.

Lady D showed me that the media, city and police were afraid of me because I came on strong. They were not used to someone being that strong coupled with they knew nothing about me, who I was or were I came from. For all they knew I could have been their worst nightmare. As it turns out they were mine.

So Lady D taught me how to be diplomatic, deal with my paranoia issues as well as many others and to deal with the situation after I lost the fear, thus making it possible to speak and not scare everyone.

Helping people means that one must forgive and keep on forgiving as people on the whole are not aware of much and use their egos to protect themselves from the unknown. I was the unknown. What I was saying was even more the unknown.

Our egos are the meanest, most selfish and the uncaring part of ourselves.

Coming straight from the ROCK world my ego needed to be modified. Lady D helped me to do that. Upon doing this I can clearly see that I have been dealing with angry egos, who in their eyes have with no answers to a huge problem.

I will not give up because the kids need protection from these egos, as well as to learn not to grow up using their egos to protect themselves because that is one of the cores of abuse.

The Ego is a complete lie we tell ourselves. It is nothing but illusion.

Those illusion bubbles must be broken in order to heal.

One cannot love if one does not forgive so I worked very hard to do that and learned to understand them all and thus forgive.

I hope this is the answer you are searching for.

Dear Springeagle:

This is a long story so I will try to keep it short, a person who is very close to me was charged with molesting his daughters, his daughter by a first marriage made these charges, he did not see her until later in life and of course tried to make up for some of these things. such as not being there and because of his guilt giving her money all the time. She had been on drugs and in and out of mental hospitals he started to see another girl who was much younger than himself, which of course she did not like from the word go. They went on to have children and it started to happen that children services stated to be called out, over things that was suppose to have been done to the girls. Around 13 times in 4 years. They never found anything because there was nothing to be found. This happened in Ohio they moved to North Carolina to get away from this because they did not know who was doing this. They were down here charges. There is one other thing that she used in his second marriage he had step children who were getting up to dating age and he was pretty trick to get him out of the way they made charges that he touched them and he was convicted of this by a jury but the judge only gave him 6 months because he didn't believe the girls. When children services came out he told them about this but he was in a letter bit of a fit but he held it in. He is from West Virginia and quiet out spoken and not to mention tired of this. They told his wife she and the girls had to leave right then . I know this getting long so I may leave some out. They have the children in foster care and lied about certain things to get it done, at this point and time it has boiled down to this she has to make a choice between her children and her husband. He ruffled to many fathers here and now they are going to make something stick, their Aunt. Say he is being railroaded and it happens all the time and their is nothing they can do. They will not go on T.V. and tell this because the live here. He is in a very corrupt jail and we are afraid to do too much because he might not come out. Of course there is more to this. What do we do, in giving your answer try to remember every thing is true we are telling you. Shirley

Thanks Ronald

Hi Ronald:

I see clearly what is happening here. There is no question in my mind that someone, (may be not your friend's husband) but someone has messed with the older girls in a sexual way. They would not be lashing out in this manner if nothing had ever happened at all. I believe they are taking this out on their stepfather as many young girls that have been abused in a sexual way do. I deal with this on a daily basis and it is very hard for us to sort all of this out. It is hell on earth.

One girl I was working with accused 8 guys of trying to molest her including her father. I personally know most of these guys and know that this is untrue

This girl has not yet been able to see behind the blocks she has around her own abuses. Abuses that had nothing at all to do with the guys she has accused at all. All of these allegations were made when this girl in question did not get her way or was being confronted with something she was incorrectly doing or not doing. She has literally lavished our lives in a very painfully hell and is laughing about it.

I have been abused sexually and to me this is truly hideous but the only way to stop these girls or boys in the opposite causes, is to get them to open the blocks they have in their minds to see clearly who did abuse them. I will pray for all of you and wish all the answers found.

Emotional Manipulation!

Your home is quiet and peaceful. It has been this way for some time. All inhabitants get along relevantly well until a visitor comes to call. This person likes your home, the feelings of warmth and caring makes this person feel accepted and strong. The first visit was normal in length and very positive. The second is longer and in a while they are visiting almost all the time until they almost become a permanent part. Suddenly, out of no-where bickering begins, but only within the people living within this home. The inhabitants begin to complain to each other regarding the silliest things. This arguing continues and become more frequent. These little spats begin to erupt more and more frequent. Each of the residences of the home begin to feel anger towards this visitor but takes these unplaced feelings on each other within the home. The visitor just watches and enjoys the show, feeling stronger, more confident and more a part of your home then their own.

Many people have gone through experiences such as this and never truly saw the problem. I've seen marriages brake up, friendships end and children leave home earlier then they would have given this particular visitor had not come to call. Over and over homes brake up and shatter due to humans not accepting, owing a n d showing their true feelings.

I understand, we have emotions and have been taught to hide them from others. This masquerade helps us to distance ourselves from others in order to prevent us from being emotionally hurt by another. On the other hand hiding ones emotions from others causes great difficulties. Those un-owned emotions are still lingering in the atmosphere. These floating, emotions enter into another person's body and their mood suddenly changes without reason. As these emotions are literally invading this other person's body, without permission or knowledge of this happening, the receiver of these emotions is totally caught off guard, completely believe they are our own feelings and defenses erupt, thus arguing and bickering begin.

Of course it is bad manners to point the finger at a visitor who seems to look as though they are calm and cool, we tend to take this problem out on more familiar people around us and the home is then at war. A war that would not have happened if this visitor had not come to call.

PHILOSOPHY by Angel Femia/LoveCry

This past few years much has been written about the emotional manipulation we humans have been doing to each other for decades. Physiologists and Spiritual teachers have been exploring and revealing head games, telepathy and the effects of these games on each other for quiet some time now. This is one area I worked a very long time to understand and put a stop to within myself. I have had far too many relationships fall to ruin due to head game games and surprised emotions from outsiders I had trusted.
