Canada's version of the Federal Reserve is the taxpayer owned Bank of Canada which, instead of issuing its own currency — borrows from private banks for no reason. Private banks have no risk "lending" to the Canadian government.

In 1938, William Lyon Mackenzie King promised Canadians 100% issuance of money from the Bank of Canada instead of the Tory government's corrupt borrowing from private banks. As a personal friend of Rockefeller, he got to power but cut the issuance of money to just 50% allowing private banks to issue the rest. Rockefeller knew it would be a matter of time only before private banks would retake the immoral issuance of money. This was achieved in 1974 when the issuance of money by private banks took over 98% of money creation. The Bank of Canada only creates 2% of money in Canada — probably what we carry in our pockets — Loonies, Toonies and paper cash.

Canada pays 44 billion in interest payments (taxes) and compound interest which is a lamentable state of affairs — having to pay private banks for our very existence.

Touching the power within

The origins of Firewalking are so ancient, no one knows for sure where it began... or why. Indigenous cultures all over the world have used Firewalking as a ritual for a wide variety of reasons. Some of these are a coming of age initiation, a metaphor for life, the overcoming of fear, or an understanding of a personal reality. It can be said that the reasons people walk on fire are as many and varied as the individuals who walk. The Firewalk has the potential to break down self-imposed limitations. It can transform ones belief system and create a more effective way of dealing with life's challenges. Consequently, Shifts Happen. The experience for each Firewalker will unfold in direct relation to their own personal reality whether they choose to walk or not.

Participation in the Ritual is the key, while walking is always a choice. Zsuzsa Owen has been sharing her journey with the Fire by engaging with the public for the last ten years. On her own path, she has worked with Shaman from many indigenous cultures and has had teachers from many walks of life, from the Q'ero elders in Peru and the Shaur medicine men in Ecuador to the Lakota Sioux sacred traditions as well as participation in Gestalt techniques and Eastern Philosophies in energy work.

Our Toronto Street News gang and 911 Truth group some-times hang out at 553 Bloor West Saturday afternoons in Laila's Restaurant. It is west of Bathurst Street and east of Seeker's Book Store distribution.

Democratic Fraud
As ZIONISTS attack our advertiser so that we cannot any longer subsidize their corporation here in future.

Therefore their ad will not appear as they are afraid of further harassment and threats by Toronto ZIONISTS who attack the messenger rather than improve themselves and their nazi ways.
