About a month after being vaccinated against the cervical cancer-causing HPV virus, 13-year-old Jenny Tetlock missed the lowest hurdle in gym class, the first hint of the degenerative muscle disease that, 15 months later, has left the previously healthy teenager nearly completely paralyzed. Did the vaccine, Gardasil, cause her condition? Her father, Philip Tetlock, a psychology professor at UC-Berkeley's Haas School of Business, has embarked on an odyssey to find out whether the vaccine or random coincidence is to blame. US News & World Report July 2, 2008 (From Sept. 7, 2007)

The Harper government has allocated $300 million to vaccinate thousands of girls as young as age nine against a sexually transmitted disease, human papillomavirus (HPV), which occasionally causes cervical cancer.

The vaccine (Gardasil) only works on girls with no sexual experience. So instead of teaching these children that it is self-destructive and degrading to be promiscuous, the government is inoculating them as if they were becoming prostitutes.

Instead of selling these girls, the politicians are taking their cut up front, from big pharma, profiting from promiscuity in the name of protecting "public health."

This is the shape of socialism in the New World Order: enriching corporations by degrading and drugging the population.

In an interview with CBC-TV, a representative of Merck-Frosst, the maker of the vaccine, admitted that lobbying is how pharma business is done in Canada. [Apparently a former adviser to Harper became a lobbyist for Merck.]

Stephen Harper agenda pursues NAU agenda to break up Canada through "new deal for provinces"

by John Stokes, Editor The Canadian National Newspaper

The Stephen Harper government is using the public relations cover story of pursuing a "new deal with the provinces" to pursue the fascistic Big Business agenda of North American Union (NAU).

Big Business elites have instructed the managers of the media empires they own to present Mr. Harper's initiative, as an attempt to create a new era of so-called "peace" between the federal and provincial levels of government. However, in actuality, Mr. Harper, along with his political confederates on Parliament Hill, is seeking to break down a sense of nationhood in Canada. Indeed, provincial governments' power far outstrips state powers in the United States, and other societies, that have a corresponding federal structure of power.

On February 21 2006, the Globe and Mail's front page had been strewn with the title "Empower provinces, CEOs say". These are the same CEOs that were invited to participate in secretive NAU talks in Montebello, Quebec on the Security and Prosperity and Partnership (SPP), in late August 2007. The SPP is the Constitution of the NAU, which transfers power from members of society as a whole, to a political-military-industrial complex.

Thomas d'Aquino, the President of the Canadian Council of Chief Executives, that supports the NAU agenda, also not surprisingly, was a great political lobbyist for the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). NAFTA has been the principal mechanism for

The last time the Canadian government took such drastic action was during a polio outbreak in the 1950's. But there is no epidemic of cervical cancer now. In fact, it doesn't even rank in the top 10 cancers affecting Canadian women. Whereas 400 women die of cervical cancer each year, over 5000 die of breast cancer.

At the same time, society is giving children the message that being "sexually active" is part of "becoming a woman." In fact, girls become women by preparing to become wives and mothers. Promiscuity just makes them feel worthless and unwanted.

In a TV report, a mother just laughs when her 13-year-old daughter announces her intention to become "sexually active" at age 16. A father thinks the new vaccine is really cool while his daughter sits beside him in stunned silence. What message is she getting?

The current Canadian government pretends to be socially conservative and espouse "family values." This is a funny way to do it. BOONDOGGLE WITH CONSEQUENCES

At best, this vaccination campaign is a boondoggle for Merck. At worst it could have many negative effects. A reader from Argentina wrote that last Oct. the government tried to vaccinate girls for Rubeola but was stopped when some doctors revealed the vaccine contained a sterilization agent called prostaglandin.

A report for the Women's Health Network by a McGill University epidemiologist calls the Canadian program "premature and could possibly have unintended negative consequences for individuals and for society as a whole."

While as many as 50% of women get some form of HPV over their lifetime, the report says most of these do not result in cervical cancer and can be cured.

"Most HPV infections are cleared spontaneously. Recent research using available molecular detection technologies suggests that clearance occurs within one year for about 70% of those infected, and within two years for 90%. Thus, HPV infection and cervical cancer must not be conflated: most women who are infected with even a 'high-risk' strain of HPV will not develop cervical cancer."

enabling U.S. corporations to destroy Canada's social, political, and economic independence from the America's empire-seeking political-military-industrial complex. SPP merely seeks to statutorily complete the prevailing take-over of Canada. SPP envisions Canada being fully absorbed by the United States by no later than 2010, according to a Freedom of Information paper trail provided by Mel Hurtig and others.

The NAU, is the expansion of the borders of the United States, that aims to assimilate Canada and Mexico. Its legitimization is a context of fear in relation to the "War on Terror", which itself, has been contrived by elites. Perpetuating war, has become a commercially profitable business enterprise to America's elites, and that operation apparently includes the take-over of nations. Just ask the people of Iraq who now live under an American military occupation with no end in sight, having been attacked by these same group of fascists.

When the Globe and Mail on 30 July 2008, again strewn on its front page, "Ottawa drafts new deal for provinces: Tories willing to extend greater economic autonomy -- such as allowing Quebec to negotiate unilateral labour deal with France", it was reporting on the continued efforts of the Office of Mr. d'Aquino, in association with Mr. Harper and his political confederates, to pursue the breakdown and break-up of Canada, in order to allow for and to expedite an American take-over of our country.

No nation could be realistically expected to survive the kind of pro-NAU seditious political intrigues that Mr. Harper pursues, in collusion with Mr. Jack Layton, Mr. Stephane Dion, and the Bloc leadership. The so-called "new deal for provinces" reported on by the Globe and Mail, amounts to high treason

The report also states that clinical trials were insufficient to test the efficacy of the vaccine since the subjects were too young to be exposed to HPV. The average cervical cancer patient is 47 years old so it isn't clear how long the vaccine will remain effective.

During the last six months of 2006, the (US) National Vaccine Information Center (NVIC) got 385 reports of adverse reactions to Gardasil.

"There are twice as many children collapsing and four times as many children experiencing tingling, numbness and loss of sensation after getting Gardasil vaccination compared to those getting a Tdap (tetanus-diphtheria-acellular pertussis) vaccination."

"There have been reports of facial paralysis and Guillain-Barre Syndrome. And doctors who give Gardasil in combination with other vaccines are basically conducting an experiment on their young patients because Merck has not published any safety data for simultaneous vaccination with any vaccine except hepatitis B vaccine."

In May 2007, Judicial Watch reported 1600 adverse reactions to Gardasil including two deaths.

INSANITY Next week in Toronto alone, 40,000 young girls and their parents will be pressured to allow an inoculation for a sexually transmitted disease. The reason for the pressure is that three injections are required over a six-months period i.e. the school year.

"My 12 year old daughter is facing this decision -- her MD. has suggested we vaccinate her right away," a mother posted on the CBC-TV web site. "I am NOT a skeptical person by any means but something about this whole campaign makes me very nervous."

At over $400 for the three-doses, this is most exorbitantly overpriced child vaccine in existence. Apparently Merck will be paying those Vioxx settlements at the expense of Canadian taxpayers and adolescent girls.

The unstated, and outrageous assumption behind this vaccination campaign is that promiscuity is the norm. Human papilloma virus will not be transferred if people are selective and monogamous (and use condoms.) These girls have never had sex. Most will not have sex for years. Many will not be promiscuous and will not need this vaccine.

The other assumption is that sex is a necessary social experience that is divorced from courtship, love, marriage and procreation. On the contrary, a girl's healthy psychological development is based on her participation in the natural life cycle by having a family. Thus she must consecrate herself sexually for future or potential husband.

Contrary to feminist ideology, women are fulfilled in this way, not by becoming dentists or mechanics. Many feminist organizations are in favor of Gardasil. This is consistent with my view that the hidden agenda of feminism is to undermine marriage and family. Far from fighting the "patriarchy," feminism shells for the establishment.

Surely it would be less hypocritical (and cheaper) to teach these girls that promiscuity doesn't make them a woman. On the contrary, it ruins their chances for fulfillment by undermining their ability to bond permanently with their husband (i.e. love a man.)

A young woman shouldn't need more than a couple of long-term relationships before she finds the right one. She doesn't need to protect herself like a prostitute would. On the other hand, many politicians and doctors could use some Gardasil.

This gratuitous mass inoculation sets a bad precedent. I don't want to speculate what excuse they will find for the next one.

Note #1: A report broadcast on NBC-News Saturday showed that Gardasil is being marketed in the US as a vaccine against HPV. One MD in Vermont has a waiting list of 288 girls. In fact, Gardasil prevents only four of about 30 strains of HPV, which represent only 70% of cancer causing HPV's. At $360 for the three doses, plus doctor's fees, there is a lot of money at stake in this ruse. This is especially true since some doctors think cervical cancer is caused by feminine products and not HPV.

Note #2: According to Dr. Judith Reisman, more than 80% of newborn American children are being inoculated with a vaccine for Hepatitis B, which is a venereal disease. This is not a threat to children but it is a threat to pedophiles because it identifies children who have been sexually abused by them.

On an episode of NBC's Fear Factor, contestants in competition for $50,000 were required to eat donoughs filled with live insects, blood, and other gruesome ingredients. These contestants were then required to drink an even further nauseating glass of spoiled milk, as thick as cottage cheese. You may have also heard about track and field stars, and baseball players willing to take steroids, that posed an immediate risk to their longevity. Such examples are reminders of a growing trend in today's capitalist society, where people are prepared to risk their own health, for money and "fame".

If people are so willing in today's society, to "prostitute" their own basic health for money, it is not a far stretch to imagine people in positions of power, who are willing to risk the health and well being of others, for far less money. This is the operational context for the kind of mentality which is taking place on Parliament Hill these days, supported by the apparent likes of CBC, and other such mass-media in Canada.

Canadians need to wake up, and realize that politicians on Parliament Hill have been far more corrupted, than what we might occasionally watch hear, or read about from corporate or state-controlled sources like the CBC, Radio Canada, or TVOntario.

The NAU agenda could easily be the largest and most extensive scandal ever to take place in Canada. Furthermore it involves the elites of all of Canada's major political parties, and the boardrooms of Canada's major corporations, which include major print, TV, radio, and electronic media.
