ISP's confirm '2012: The Year The Internet Ends'

Update: Bell Canada and TELUS (formerly owned by Verizon) employees officially confirm that by 2012 ISP's all over the globe will reduce Internet access to a TV-like subscription model, only offering access to a small standard amount of commercial sites and require extra fees for every other site you visit. These 'other' sites would then lose all their exposure and eventually shut down, resulting in what could be seen as the end of the Internet.

Bell Canada working on shutting down Internet accessibility:

Dylan Pattyn *, who is currently writing an article for Time Magazine on the issue, has official confirmation from sources within Bell Canada and is interviewing a marketing representative from TELUS who confirms the story and states that TELUS has already started blocking all websites that aren't in the subscription package f or mobile Internet access. They could not confirm whether it would happen in 2012 because both stated it may actually happen sooner (as early as 2010). Interviews with these sources, more confirmation from other sources and more in-depth information on the issue is set to be published in Time Magazine soon.

What can we do?
The reason why we're releasing this information is because we believe we can stop it. More awareness means more mainstream media shedding light on it, more political interest and more pressure on the ISP's to keep the Internet an open free space. We started this social network as a platform for Internet activism where we can join forces, share ideas and organize any form of protest that may have an impact. If we want to make a difference in this, we have to join together and stand united as one powerful voice against it.

Zionists Controlling The Media

In reply to police orders given to them and then to us — we are no longer permitted to run the Henry Makow column henrymakow.com. Henry's website is legal but not in Toronto according to Toronto's police. All reporters who continue to hide this fact once they know it — are therefore media whores or "presstitutes" — that is, reporters paid to hide facts from you the reader.

See Page 14 also as Ben Fulford's reporting of physical abuse by Bob Rae's family and his videos explaining Zionist attack on Honda in Tokyo now threatens our Honda advertiser in Toronto as that advertiser of several years has been told his business will be hurt if they advertise with us in future!

There is no place to report these intimidations since Metro and CSIS are controlled by these people with alien loyalties.

They may also offer to take DNA swabs in this new police-state identification of your children. They are using scare tactics telling parents their children need to be identified within two hours of going missing. Beware people dressed in clown suits as pedophiles regularly use this disguise to get near children.

Sonoma State Project Censored Lecture Series

Hello: My name is Rebecca Newsome, and I am a researcher for Project Censored, based out of Sonoma State University in California.

Connie Fogal has been nominated as a finalist for Project Censored's new book because of her coverage of the Security and Prosperity Partnership.

Thank you, Rebecca Newsome
www.ProjectCensored.org

Dear Connie Fogal,
Your article "North American Union: The SPP is a "hostile takeover" of democratic government and an end to the Rule of Law" published by Global Research, has been selected as a finalist for the Project Censored "Most Censored" News Stories of 2007-08 Awards. Hundreds of news stories were nominated this year and your story has been ranked in the top twenty-five most important under-covered of the year.

All of the top twenty-five stories have been forwarded to our national judges for final ranking. We will be in touch soon to let you know the results of that ranking and to invite you to take part in the Fall 2008 Project Censored lecture series.

Over 250 faculty and students at Sonoma State University reviewed your story and voted on it on April 15. A synopsis of your story will appear in Chapter 1 of the book Censored 2009: Media Democracy in Action, scheduled for release in October from Seven Stories Press.

Please be sure to include your mailing address and contact information below so we can send your award and a copy of Censored 2009 upon release.

We would like to include an update on your story as part of Chapter 1. This is intended to give readers additional information and suggest possible ways to become proactive on the issues presented in your story. Following each synopsis we give space for you to write a short (under 500 words) summary updating your story. Please address the following in your update summary:

- * the importance of this story,
- * any relevant information that has developed since publication of your article,
- * mainstream press response to your story,
- * How a person might get more information on the subject of your story.- Please include contact information for relevant proactive organizations, sources or web sites.

Your update is an important part of keeping your story alive. The Project Censored stories go on to receive national attention from the mainstream and alternative/independent press in the U.S. and abroad. Millions of additional people will hear about your work.

On behalf of the Project Censored staff, faculty and students, we thank you for your courage and professionalism in investigative reporting. Congratulations and welcome to the Year 2008 Project Censored program.

Sincerely,
Tricia Boretta, Project Censored
